

SENATE DISCUSSES WAR NATIONS' ACTS WITHOUT LIMIT

Great Britain's Interference with U. S. Trade Called "Perpetual Robbery"—Germany Branded as "Guilty of Murder."

HOKE SMITH IS RAMPANT

Pleads for Action to Prevent England Advancing Her Own Trade at Expense of United States—John Sharp Williams Makes Stinging Speech.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Issues arising from the European war were discussed without restraint in the Senate today in the warmest debate on international questions since Congress convened. Great Britain's interference with American trade was characterized as "perpetual robbery." Germany was branded as "guilty of murder." Plans were made for an embargo on munitions and foodstuffs to England, and charges were made and denied that British agents intercepted American mail to take advantage of trade secrets. Possibility of war to enforce American rights did not escape attention, but the suggestion of war was counterbalanced with appeal for calm deliberation. After half an hour of cool heads after half an hour of heated heads, the debate was precipitated by Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, who pleaded for action to prevent England from advancing her own trade at the expense of the United States while attempting to destroy Germany commercially. He declared that the rights of citizens of the United States and other neutral nations were being recklessly disregarded and emphasized particularly what he denominated as Great Britain's lawless treatment of American cotton trade.

Discussing the action of the allies in proclaiming cotton as contraband, the senator asserted that action had not been needed by Germany or her allies in the manufacture of war munitions for more than eight months, substitutes for cotton having been used.

Senator Smith described as silly and untrue statements that the United States had cotton contraband during the Civil War.

"I shall not quickly continue to furnish Great Britain what she is compelled to obtain from the United States while the commercial rights of citizens of this country are trampled under foot," asked the senator.

He declared that Great Britain needed munitions, food and raw materials in order to continue the war.

"By means of her powerful navy, she can easily obtain her rights from both belligerents," he declared.

"Paraphrasing the language of Mr. Jefferson, England may feel the desire of observing the commerce of Germany and of starving her people, but she can have no right of doing it at our loss or of making us the instrument of it."

Senator Smith declared that the United States had the right to ship both cotton and foodstuffs to non-combatants. He declared that the manufacture of cotton fabrics had grown to be a great industry in Germany. German skill had enabled them seriously to encroach on English commerce, he added.

"If cotton can be kept out of Germany and the exports from Germany suppressed, then, perhaps, England may capture this trade and help her own commerce."

Senator Smith's vigorous assault upon England's trade was endorsed by Senator Borah of Idaho, who said he was willing to take responsibility for "action, not speech," to protect American rights but he feared embargo legislation could not be passed by Congress.

From Senator John Sharp Williams, the Georgia senator's utterances drew a stinging reply with a declaration that he was not willing to go to war for more dollars nor to have the "People of Dixie" placed in an attitude of holding property on a plane with human life. Senator Williams said until the issue of murdered American women and children on the high seas was settled, he would not vote for the President of the United States should property not attempt to force settlement for innocent loss of property from war-maddened people until he could appeal to his calmer judgment when war had ceased.

Several hours of the Senate was held in rapid attention to the frankness and vigor of the speakers. The discussion reached a climax when Senator Smith intimated that the United States would place commercialism over human life, dramatically inquired of Senator Williams:

"Because Germany has been guilty of murder, must we concede the right of perpetual robbery on the high seas to Great Britain?"

Sensor Smith declared that Congress should act because the President could do no more than write notes. He said he did not want to go to war but insisted that the United States should have the nerve to insist upon its commercial rights. The embargo to force England's hand Senator Smith suggested should be made effective within thirty days unless Great Britain yielded.

Senator Williams held the Senate for more than an hour with his words. The allies, he said, would not be bullied by the United States "unless they were to stand still like a lot of whipped curs while waiting for life, liberty and independence" and yield to the Congress of the United States backed by an army of 500,000 soldiers and the fourth navy in the world.

He charged it sufficient for this government to protect itself against violation of commercial rights and to avoid declaration of a calumny upon its commercial rights. He asserted that he would not "kill one human being on the face of the globe for mere property," unless after a long and hard battle had been fought and he should declare that American rights were being violated and deliberately defied.

Senator Williams declared the people of the South were just as concerned as other Americans over the murder of the American citizens but they were also concerned over the destruction of their property.

Senator Vardaman of Mississippi, declared the position of Senator Smith declaring it was sustained by international law, by the President of the United States and the secretary of state.

FUNERAL OF J. H. SENTER.

Washington Co. Court Room Not Large Enough to Contain Gatherings.

Montpelier, Jan. 25.—Funeral services under Masonic auspices, were held this afternoon at two o'clock in the Washington county court house for John H. Senter, whose death occurred suddenly Thursday evening. Collins Blakey acted as worshipful master and was assisted in the services by Arthur L. Colby, master of Aurora Lodge. The Knute Tempel acted as escort for the remains in accordance with the request of the deceased. A quartette composed of Frederic Edwards, George Shannon, Frank Pitkin and William Smith sang two selections.

The court room was not large enough to accommodate those who wished to pay their last respects to the deceased and many were forced to stand in the corridors leading into the room.

Members of the Washington County Bar association assembled in the grand jury room and attended the services in a body and with them sat Justices John H. Watson and Charles D. Watson, the latter of St. Albans. There were also many from Barre, Waterbury and Northfield, who were associated with Mr. Senter in some way or another. Mayor Boutwell and other members of the council attended with every other municipal department represented.

The remains were placed in the vault in the chapel at Green Mount cemetery, where interment will be made in the spring.

The bearers were L. C. Moody, W. A. Lord, A. J. Sibley, A. A. Stebbins, F. H. Tracy and L. D. Brooks.

BANDIT AND GIRL STEAL $900; KILL MAN AND ESCAPE

Daring Auto Crime Committed in Chicago in Broad Daylight and on Street Congested with Traffic and People.

THOS. A. COOK AGENCY ROBBED

Cashier Is Shot—Traffic Policeman Attracted to Scene Is Killed by Bullet from Bandit's Gun—Boldest Deed of the Kind Known in Many Years.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—A bandit, accompanied by a woman, this afternoon robbed the tourist agency of Thomas A. Cook & Son of $900, wounded the cashier, killed a policeman and escaped.

According to the police the deed was the most daring of years in this city. It was accomplished on one of the busiest streets of the downtown district at an hour when the thoroughfare was congested with automobiles and people.

The woman did not participate in the actual robbery. She ordered a taxicab at the Great Northern Hotel and John McCabe of the Pay company responded. The woman instructed him to drive to 33 East Jackson street, the Cook office, where a policeman was waiting.

Meanwhile the robber had entered the office. The cashier, Ernest L. Walsh, attempted to reach a revolver, but was shot and painfully injured and backed into a vault with four other employees. B. A. Johnson, a traffic policeman, was attracted to the scene but found that the bandit had locked the door after entering. Johnson was trying to force an entrance when the robber suddenly threw it open and fired a bullet into the officer's head.

He scattered the throng on the sidewalk and leaped toward the taxicab. Pointing his weapon toward McCabe the robber ordered him to drive away but McCabe jumped. The bandit hesitated a second and then sped up an alley. The woman followed. She gazed for a moment at the face of the dead policeman and, according to witnesses, seemed about to faint but recovered and disappeared in the crowd. McCabe was interviewed at police headquarters and allowed to return to work. The police were satisfied of his innocence.

BIRD AND BOTANICAL CLUBS ARE UNITED

General Finance Scheme Adopted—Union May Dissolve at Will.

Rutland, Jan. 21.—A resolution which consolidates the Vermont Botanical and Bird clubs to transact business as one club and permits use of the club for the expense of research work, yet provides a way to dissolve the union if it should become the wish of members later, was adopted today at the annual meeting of the clubs at the Hotel Bardwell here. This resolution was suggested by Dr. Ezra Brainerd of Middlebury, president of the Botanical club, who was also its first chairman.

Miss Nellie F. Flynn of Burlington, treasurer for the joint club, today gave a report showing that all expenses of the year were paid. There is a balance of $10 in the life membership fund of the Botanical department and $30 in the Bird department.

Morning and afternoon sessions today were devoted to papers on economical and ecological subjects in ornithology and botany. This evening Prof. George F. Burns of Burlington gave an illustrated lecture showing how the wild trees and shrubs of Vermont may be utilized in landscape gardening. About 20 out of town members were here for the meetings which end Saturday noon.

BIRDS AND PLANTS PEOPLE CLOSE SESSIONS

Decide to Hold Summer Meeting at Wallingford—New Officers.

Rutland, Jan. 21.—The annual meeting of the Vermont Botanical and Bird club, which began here Friday at the Hotel Bardwell, closed Saturday at noon with the election of the following officers: President, Dr. Ezra Brainerd, Middlebury; vice-president, Prof. Harry F. Perkins, Burlington; secretary, Prof. George F. Burns, Burlington; treasurer, Mrs. Nellie F. Flynn, Burlington; librarian, Miss Phoebe Towle, Burlington; bulletin editor, George L. Kirk, Rutland, and Prof. A. E. Lambert, Middlebury.

It was voted to hold the next summer meeting at Wallingford and Dana S. Carpenter of Middletown Springs and Elroy C. Kent of East Wallingford were chosen a committee on arrangements. The meeting will come in July.

In an illustrated lecture on horticulture before the club, Professor Burns urged Vermonters to make greater use of native trees and shrubs in landscape gardening. Many city florists dig shrubs from the Vermonters' back yard, grow them for a year in a garden and then sell them back to the Green Mountain State as rare exotics.
